

Trinity Student Tops Regional Psychology Category at the 2019 Global Undergraduate Awards

Recent Single Honours graduate Angela Wu has been awarded the 2019 Regional Winner from the Island of Ireland region in the Psychology category by The Global Undergraduate Awards for her entry Prevalence of Cognitive Dysfunction in Spontaneous Clearers of Hepatitis C Virus (HCV) versus Chronic HCV Patients in Ireland.

Angela's paper was evaluated by a group of judges who are experts in their category and was selected as the highest performing Highly Commended Entrant from the UA region in psychology.

With 3,437 submissions to The Global Undergraduate Awards 2019 programme, this is a truly remarkable achievement.
